Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain it effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER.

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District.
ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan., 20, 1880.
DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with Kendall's Spavin Cure has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ringbone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him, so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours,
P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.
B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with Kendall's Spavin Cure, one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me it will be very great.
Respectfully yours,
CHAS. E. PARKER.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach a every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.
Price $1. per bottle, or six bottles for $5. ALL druggists have it or can get it for you. It will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietor, DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Keeseburg Falls, Vermont.

OCTOBER—A WOOD.

"I know what you're going to say," she said. And she stood up, looking uncommonly tall: "You are going to speak of the hectic fall, And say you're sorry the summer's dead, And no other summer was like it, you know, And can I imagine what made it so, Now aren't you, honestly?" "Yes," I said.

"I know what you're going to say," she said: "You are going to ask if I forget That day in June when the woods were wet, And you carried me"—here she dropped her head— "Over the creek; you are going to say, Do I remember that horrid day, Now aren't you, honestly?" "Yes," I said.

"I know what you're going to say," she said: "You are going to say that since that time You have rather tended to run to rhyme, And"—her clear glance fell, and her cheek grew red— "And have I noticed your tone was queer, Why, everybody has seen it here! Now aren't you, honestly?" "Yes," I said.

"I know what you're going to say," I said: "You're going to say you've been much annoyed; And I'm short of tact—you will say, 'devoid'— And I'm clumsy and awkward; and call me Ted; And I bear abuse like a dear old lamb; And you'll have me, anyway, just as I am. Now aren't you, honestly?" "Yes," she said. —Harper's Magazine.

Weather Charts for the Southern Ocean.

The London Meteorological Office has recently published an important series of meteorological charts for the ocean district adjacent to the Cape of Good Hope. These charts, numbering twenty-four in twelve pairs, one pair for each month, are based upon a hundred and forty-seven thousand sets of observations, furnished mostly by merchant ships traversing this district (between latitude 30 degrees and 50 degrees south of longitude 10 degrees and 40 degrees east) and extending over a period of twenty-four years. Among the results arrived at by an analysis of this immense mass of data are some which will be of great practical value to ships navigating this part of the Southern Ocean.

It is found that the winds and storms off the seas around the Cape of Good Hope conform to the "law of storms" precisely as they do in Europe and the United States, though, of course, the rotation of cyclone and anti-cyclone is reversed in the Southern Hemisphere, and that the rate of progress the Cape gales usually attain is about twenty-five miles per hour. The Agulhas current, running to the southwest off the southern eastern coast of Africa, is shown by these researches to be about eight degrees warmer than the neighboring waters in the same latitude, carrying the high temperature of 70 degrees to the thirty-ninth southern parallel, with a speed varying from forty-six to one hundred and eight miles a day. The charts also show that the drift of Antarctic ice extends very nearly to the Cape of Good Hope, and that in the southern summer the danger to ships making their passages south of the forty-fifth parallel is greatly increased. As the data show that the rate of sailing was fastest on the forty-third parallel (that both north and south of that line the conditions were less favorable for making the passage of the Cape) emigrant and other vessels, which not unfrequently run ice risks by going too far south, will lose nothing by following the safer course round the "Cape of Storms."

It is to be hoped that, now the meteorology of this region is elucidated for the benefit of the mariner, a similar series of charts, based on all the early and latest observations, may be prepared for the still more stormy and dangerous ocean adjacent to Cape Horn. A new work of this kind, embodying the experience of thousands of ships and discussing all obtainable data, is a desideratum much felt by navigators, and it could hardly fail to yield results of great value to the world's commerce.

The Wolf and His Inconsiderate Son.

A Wolf who had arrived at a good old age and no longer felt able to go out and play the string game on the Innocent and Unconfiding, called his Son to him one day and said:

"My cantankerous Offspring, I am growing old, I am stiff in the joints, troubled with Dyspepsia, and no longer have the sand to go out and tackle anything bigger than a yearling Lamb. I feel that it is time for me to hang up." The Son humbly agreed, and the Old Wolf continued:

"I have managed, as you are aware, by strict attention to Poker, Faro and a few other Family Amusements, to lay by some Sugar for my old age. I shall turn over everything to you, Beloved Offspring, and depend upon you to care for me during the few brief years of my stay on Earth."

"Excellent idea, Governor—very excellent," replied the Son, and he went out behind the house to crack his Heels together and poke himself in the Ribs.

That same evening the Old Wolf sat down for a Smoke, but before he had drawn six whiffs from his Pipe the Beloved Son remarked:

"That habit is both d'gusting and expensive, and I'd advise you to quit."

The Pipe was laid aside, and the Old Man went to the cupboard to take a Nip of Red Eye for the Stomach's sake.

"And you also want to chop off on that," observed the Beloved. "Whisky not only costs Money, but Degrades the Intellect."

The Old Man replaced the Bottle with a heart-felt sigh and humbly inquired if there was any Cold Chicken left from supper.

"Cold Chicken! Well, you have got Cheek, and no mistake. If Codfish isn't good enough for you you'd better Travel!"

"You will, at least, permit me to stay in the House over night, I hope," said the Father.

"Why, I have no objections to your sleeping on the floor to night, but you'd better Dig Out pretty early in the Morning."

Then the Venerable Parent fell upon the Beloved Offspring and made his Heels break his Neck, and flung him out doors and over the Fence, and gave him to Understand that henceforth he was a Wanderer and a Horse Thief.

A RUPTURE has occurred between Mahone and the Administration growing out of the United States judgeship of Virginia, made vacant by the resignation of Judge Rivers. Mahone considers that he has been snubbed and has worked up considerable ire over the matter.

A BILL has passed the house of representatives and is now pending in the senate, to grant to soldiers and sailors who have lost legs or arms in the military service, pensions averaging $40 a month. Under the present law the pensions allowed to such persons are on an average about $21 a month. The number of pensioners in this class is about 7,500 and the sum required for the increase about $1,700,000 annually. The bill will probably go through the senate without opposition.

THE Ashland Independent says: We believe there will be no disorder if the militia are left where they belong—at home—and we trust a sufficient number of reputable citizens, in addition to the above, and those from this county who have already offered to act as guards and peace makers, will come forward and assure Judge Brown of their co-operation in the interest of peace, to fully satisfy him that no obstacle shall be placed in the way of a lawful and fair trial. (This being done, we do not believe the Judge, who is the only man who has the power to call the troops into northeastern Kentucky, will deem it necessary to exercise so fearful a responsibility.

AYER'S
Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs: none so trifled with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured.

"In 1857 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the PECTORAL a permanent cure was effected. I am now 62 years old, hale and hearty, and am satisfied your CHERRY PECTORAL saved me. HORACE FAIRBROTHER, Rockingham, Vt., July 15, 1882.

Croup.—A Mother's Tribute.

"While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. One of the family suggested the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and to our delight in less than half an hour the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the CHERRY PECTORAL had saved my darling's life. Can you wonder at our gratitude? Sincerely yours, MRS. EMMA GEDNEY."

159 West 128th St., New York, May 16, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL in my family for several years, and do not hesitate to pronounce it the most effectual remedy for coughs and colds we have ever tried. A. J. CRANE."

Lake Crystal, Minn., March 13, 1882.

"I suffered for eight years from Bronchitis, and after trying many remedies with no success, I was cured by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. JOSEPH WALDEN."

Byhalia, Miss., April 5, 1882.

"I cannot say enough in praise of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, believing as I do that but for its use I should long since have died from lung troubles. E. BRAGDON."

Palestine, Texas, April 22, 1882.

No case of an affection of the throat or lungs exists which cannot be greatly relieved by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and it will always cure when the disease is not already beyond the control of medicine.

Don't lay aside religion with,
Your go-to-meeting clothes.

THE water company is building an addition to the pump house in East Maysville. Mr. George Clinger is doing the work.

A FINE brass fire set, which includes a coal bucket and cuspidor, will be raffled at Blatterman & Power's at eight o'clock this evening.

THE charge of grand larceny against W. A. Stockdale was dismissed on the examining trial before magistrate John L. Grant, yesterday afternoon.

THE Amazon fire company will give an oyster supper and dance to the members on Friday evening the 19th inst. Like all the social entertainments heretofore given by the company this one will be most enjoyable.

THE cash sales of leaf tobacco in the Cincinnati market for the past year aggregate upwards of $8,000,000, exclusive of cigar leaf. This was for 57,342 hogsheads, at an average of $10.86 per one hundred pounds.

ATTENTION is directed to the advertisement of Nesbitt & McKrell. In order to close out their stock of cloaks and other articles named, they are offering them at less than the actual cost. Good bargains may be secured by calling early.

MR. JOHN TAYLOR has been appointed the agent in this city for the daily and weekly Cincinnati Commercial Gazette. The paper will be delivered promptly anywhere in the city to subscribers. Orders should be left at Taylor's news depot.

Certainly Coming.

Leavitt's Gigantean minstrel troupe, a telegram informs us, at Ashland chartered the steamer Lucy Coles at great expense and will certainly arrive here in time to give the entertainment at the opera house as advertised. A later message says the boat is below Portsmouth and will reach Maysville in time to have a street parade this afternoon.

Leavitt's Minstrels.

This well known and popular troupe will appear this evening in a very choice programme. The organization includes an unusual number of fine singers, gifted comedians and specialty artists who will give a most entertaining performance. The Norwich (Conn.) Bulletin says:

Leavitt's mammoth minstrel troupe entertained a full house at Breed Hall last evening, under the local management of Messrs. Andrew & Harris. They proved in a performance of two and a half hours' duration that these combined artists are worthy of their traveling title of "Gigantean Minstrels." There was nothing old or small about them. "New and immense" are two words that cover the programme like a Bernhard glove. The vocal music was charming and the instrumental performances unique and bewildering in their variety. Tunes were produced from all kinds of instruments, from a cornet to a stomach pump. Songs and dances, acrobatic wonders, laughable sketches and exquisite music followed in swift profusion, and when the burlesque was reached people were holding their sides with laughter. Then came "Patience" which was a stupendous burlesque, and when Billy Buckley sentenced his men to "ten years in Preston," as "a penalty worse than death," he brought down the house. There was more brilliant humor in the show than is usual, and the unanimous verdict was: "Gigantean! You have it!" If the company is coming to Norwich often, the new opera house will have to be built, or addition made to Breed Hall.

The Cabin Creek Murder.

A gentleman who lives in the neighborhood where the Lyons-Crawford homicide occurred, has written us the following particulars of the unfortunate affair: About as nearly as can be found out, the circumstances of the shooting of Pent Lyons, on Cabin Creek, Dec. 25th, by Humphrey Crawford, (nick-named "Col.") are as follows:

Crawford and Lyons, with a small company of persons, mostly young men, were enjoying Christmas at the store of T. J. Tully. Lyons was intoxicated, and in consequence somewhat quarrelsome, though he was so completely under the influence of drink that he couldn't assault any one with much force, and he didn't seem to know much of what he was doing. After assaulting and bruising somewhat a young man with whom he was altogether friendly, he attacked Crawford, declaring, it is said, that he should go home with a black eye. Lyons and Crawford were not friendly towards each other. They were taken apart and Lyons taken in charge by friends. But not long after Lyons attacked Crawford again, though he did him no serious harm, except that as Lyons was being pulled away, Crawford's clothing was torn, whereupon Crawford quickly pulled his pistol and shot Lyons back of the left ear, the ball passed through and lodged against the inside of the skull in front. Crawford was quite close to Lyons when he fired. The wounded man fell bleeding freely, made no movement, was unconscious, and died in Mr. Tully's store in one hour and three-quarters from the time of the shooting.

When Crawford had fired he stood still for a little while, and then walked towards home, having thrown his pistol across the turnpike. A brother of the murdered man picked up the pistol and started after Crawford, but being intercepted, was prevented from killing him. Crawford was arrested, having made no attempt to escape, and taken the next day before Esquire D. W. Fearis. While there some of Crawford's friends called Esq. Fearis aside, he not knowing their design, and then compelled Crawford to mount a horse and run. He has not been found yet. Search is being made. $100 reward is offered by Lyons' father for Crawford's arrest.

Lyons was 21 years old; Crawford 18. Both single.

The terrible affair has cast a gloom over the entire community, not to speak of the misery and overwhelming grief brought to the families of the two men. So much for whisky and pistols.

PERSONALS.

Points About People Here and Elsewhere.

Miss Bodie Montjoy is the guest of Mrs. Sudie Trow.

Mrs. Thomas H. Mannen has returned from Cincinnati.

Miss Mary Burns, after a pleasant visit at Winchester and Lexington, is at home again.

Mrs. R. T. Cummings who has been very ill at Covington, her friends in Maysville will be glad to hear, is recovering.

The marriage of Miss Alice Keith to Dr. H. K. Adamson, will take place at the M. E. Church, South, next Wednesday evening, the 10th inst.

Mr. Howell Barkley, who has been spending the holidays with his parents, will return to Columbia College, New York City, next week.

Mr. C. S. Miner is now in the East for the purpose of buying for his firm a stock of spring and summer boots and shoes. He expects to be able to offer great inducements to buyers, and therefore invites all of his friends to await the arrival of the new stock.

Religious.

Rev. S. B. Alderson will hold services at the Presbyterian chapel in East Maysville to-morrow morning and evening at the usual hours.

Quarterly meeting will be held at the M. E. church, south, to-morrow. There will be preaching morning and evening at the usual hour, by Rev. C. J. Nugent.

Our correspondent at Germantown writes that the protracted meeting at McKendrie's chapel continues with unabated interest. Twenty-five persons have already united with the church.

Rev. W. E. Cave, of Bloomfield, Ky., will preach at the Third street Presbyterian church to-night and also to-morrow morning and evening. Communion services will be held Sabbath morning. Everybody is invited.

The regular services will be held at the Baptist Church to-morrow by the pastor, Rev. J. K. Pace. Text for the morning: "If I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet, ye also ought to wash one another's feet."

The week of prayer will be observed at the Presbyterian Church next week by services on Monday, Tuesday and Friday evenings. Monday evening, subject: "Thanksgiving and confession." Tuesday evening, subject: "The Family." Thursday evening, subject: "The Church." Friday evening, subject: "The World."

Preaching in the M. E. Church to-morrow morning. Text: Mathew 18, 10. The week of prayer will commence with the evening service as per programme by the Evangelical Alliance Committee which is as follows:

Sunday, January 7, sermon. Subject: "Mediator between God and man."
Monday night. Subject: "Praise and thanksgiving for the continued mercy and blessings of God."
Tuesday night. Subject: "Humiliation and confessions. In view of universal and national sins."
Wednesday. Prayer for families; for the cultivation of moral virtue for Sunday schools.
Thursday. Prayer for the church universal, for ministers and theological students and for the afflicted everywhere.
Friday. Prayer for nations, for rulers, magistrates, sovereigns and all in authority.
Saturday. Prayer for missions and missionaries.
Sunday, January 14. Sermon: Looking for that blessed hope and the glorious appearing of the great God our Savior Jesus Christ. Titus 2, 13.

COUNTY POINTS.

STONE LICK.

W T Calvert gave an entertainment in honor of Elder Moore. H Clay Stone and wife, Elder J H Wallingford and wife, together with our host's children and grandchildren were present.

Elder Moore, and his accomplished wife endeared themselves to the people of our community by their many social accomplishments and their religious conversations. They were both baptised into the fellowship of the old school Baptist church by the venerable Thomas P Duley, who is now in his ninety-second year and was in the war of 1812.

John Wallingford, of Fern Leaf, has bought a farm.

A protracted meeting just closed at Bethany church under the management of Elder Cocke, of Virginia, was the cause of twenty-one souls turning to the Lord, and the reclaiming of five more. May the good work go on until that time comes when "swords shall be beaten into plow shares and spears into pruning hooks, and the nations learn to war no more. May they all practice the precepts of the Gospel as well as believe it."

True and vital religion is very desirable and improves the morals of the possessor, but false religion is like counterfeit money the more a person has the worse he is off.
A welcome visitor to the BULLETIN. If, like the Bible, teaches wholesome doctrines the one teaches wholesome religious truths, the other the principles of a free government that wisely permits its humblest citizen to worship God, according to the dictates of his own conscience. God preserve the old time honored Jeffersonian democracy.

The Mt. Gilead and Lewisburg turnpike is completed.

H Clay Stone has a very fine sheep which he bought in Bourbon county which cost $45.

H Clay Stone has the finest crop of tobacco in that part of the county.

Rev. A D Morehead has permanently retired from the ministry. He was a member of the Regular Baptist Church.

Elder J H Wallingford was prevented from attending his appointments in Boone county, Saturday and Sunday, owing to the illness of Mrs Gordon, whose friends requested him not to go.

MT. OLIVET.

Mt. Olivet had a lively Christmas; two balls and a social every night during the week.

S H Holmes went to Flemingsburg last Sunday in company with Thomas B Donoyan for the purpose of attending the ball which was to have been given there on new year's night. The ball was postponed until January 8th, on account of the death of Willie Ragan, one of the managers.

The attachment of some of John F Buckner's property by his creditors on Monday has occasioned considerable talk here during the week. His creditors claim that he is hopelessly insolvent, while he claims to have $2,500 worth of property that is subject to execution.

W H Wells and T T Asbury settled in full with the county on January 1st, which is something that no other sheriff or deputy has ever done. They have done their duty as efficiently as could be wished and have been most excellent officers.

Messrs John Newman Melvia Hill and Misses Willie Jane Swart, Carrie Buckler and Mary Wells have been spending the holidays at home. SCRIBE.

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral is recommended by physicians of the greatest eminence on both sides of the Atlantic, as the most reliable remedy for colds and coughs, and all pulmonary disorders. It affords prompt relief in every case. No family should ever be without it.

Fashion Notes.

Heavy ribbed silk is the most elegant material for wraps for old ladies.

Cock's feather fans painted by hand are novelties.

Etruscan vases of the most graceful forms are copied in red and gilded wicker for scrap-baskets.

Cedar red is the new shade for kid gloves, and heavy lines of embroidery in black decorate the backs.

Moonlight blue satin with embroidery silver threads and flounces of white lace is one of the most elegant materials for reception dresses.

Long "matinee" sacques for mornings in the house are made of plush, and worn over a blouse waist of satin surah.

Moyenage necklets of silver or enameled gold are replacing the muslin cravats that have been so long worn.

Black dresses of fine camels hair or shoodah cloth have a collar, cuffs, vest and panels of black velvet, with a cord of gold on the edge.

Russian sable trimmings are made of the tails of the animals, in perpendicular rows that form stripes of darker brown than that of the bodies.

The Gretchen tunic, caught up on one side by velvet ribbons that suspend an almoner's bag, is new for young ladies' cashmere, and wool dresses.

The moon with a face in it, a Gorgon head with snake like hair, fox brush patterns, feathers and rings are the newest designs for matelasse satin for cloaks.

A Queer Dream.

I want to tell you, children, of the queer dream I had last night. I dreamed that many things were greatly changed from what I had been always accustomed to see them.

I thought, for instance, that babies' mouths were no longer made as common as the common shaving mug at the barber's, but that nobody presumed to kiss a baby until the infant had urgently requested the favor.

I thought that when a baby's stomach was full to overflowing with food, the homeopathic theory of similia similibus curantur was not followed, and instead of plying him with more food to relieve him from the distress occasioned by the overplus, his stomach was permitted to pay exclusive attention to getting rid of its present burden.

And I fancied that the young thing was no longer tossed about until his every bone threatened to break, when he was very tired and wished only to be allowed rest and sleep, nor rocked into dizziness when the tosser had grown weary of the tossing.

I thought, too, that the infant had ceased being swathed in tightly rolled wraps, and was now clothed in loosely fitting garments which allowed him to move his body and limbs with ease and freedom.

I dreamed that babies were never whipped because their mammas had lost their temper, and that they were never made drunk with soothing syrup that their mammas might attend the lecture, the play, or the ball.

I thought that grown persons had ceased to ask a child his age, if his hat or his dress or his shoes were new or where he got them, or any of the questions which are considered impertinent when addressed to an adult.

I thought that when a little boy was very tired he was not forced to give up his comfortable chair to a lady or gentleman who was not tired at all, and that when a child had secured a window-seat in the steam car it was not taken from him simply because he was a child.

I thought it had become the fashion to say "thank you" to a boy-gentleman or a miss-lady, and that "yes, sir," and "no, ma'am," were no longer exclusively used in addressing gentlemen and ladies of larger growth.

I dreamed that little boys and little girls were sometimes allowed to ask questions in which their parents were not particularly interested, and were answered with the same consideration that would have been accorded them had they been the most insufferable adult bores you ever heard of.

I thought that parents never attempted to deceive their children, but always told them the truth without prevarication or evasion.

I thought that the adage, "Children should be seen but not heard," had become obsolete, and that when a child spoke he was listened to with the same attention that would have been bestowed upon him were he twenty years older.

I dreamed that because parents had forgotten how to whine and scold, children had failed to learn the arts of whining and angry articulation.

I thought that little girls were taught to run and romp, instead of being allowed to sit still all day, and that keeping their clothing unsoiled and their muscles flaccid was not the whole of their education.

I thought that mothers cared more to see their boys with ruddy cheeks than with clean hands, and that lungs and limbs were considered as worthy of development as brains.

I thought that parents were as polite and kind in talking and dealing with their own children as with the children of others.

I thought that children were more like pleasant adults because of all these transformations, and the adults, for a like reason, retained more of the freshness and ingenuousness of childhood.

Now, children, wasn't this a most ridiculous dream?—Boston Transcript.

The popularity of the oyster as a delicacy for the table was shown during the Centennial week at Philadelphia, when 30,000,000 of the bivalves were eaten.
